We will always remember Tug and his sweet nature. He was a good friend to Addie. We were laughing when remembering that as a 5th grader, he and Brett Stillwell were trying to impress Addie and her friend Erika one day after school, but eating the purple pansy's out of our flowerbed. Addie remembers him as being her "last minute" date to homecoming their freshman year. God Bless you all.

so remember when we used to ride around and listen to music in your truck and do absolutely nothing for hours those have to be my favorite memories of you because even though we did so little we always had a lot of fun and the fact that the waitress at casa ole always knew what we wanted because we were regulars you know i still eat my enchiladas with sower cream sauce because of you. Im sorry for rambling but i guess there not enough time in the world to list everything we did together...i love you tug and you'll always have a place in my heart but i know deep down you always knew that...i could always count on you you always listened you were the one person who knew every little thing about me and loved me despite my imperfections...i dont think im ever gonna find someone like you again in my life but i know you'll always be with me. love you tugto the Schima family yall are also in my hearts because yall as well played a big part in my life there for a while i want yall to know that i love yall very much and yall are all in my prayers esp. the boys because i know how much they looked up to and loved their Uncle Tug...if yall ever need anything im just a phone call away. keep your heads high and be strong and never forget the good times.
